About the Conference: Islamic Finance has emerged as a viable alternative to conventional finance in the last four decades. The basic philosophical foundation lies in its equity, fairness and benevolence as against the conventional finance that is built on inequitable distribution of wealth and income through profiteering, rent seeking, interest based lending, gambling and uncertainties to mention but a few. It promotes risk sharing, connects the financial sector with the real economy and emphasizes on financial inclusion of those who abstain themselves from conventional banking system due to their religious belief and ensure social welfare and thus protects from economic exploitation.

However, there is a need to examine the legal, technical, and regulatory issues regarding introducing Islamic banking in India. Therefore, there is a need to deliberate, debate and discuss various aspects and issues pertaining to Islamic banking and finance in Indian context. This will help the policy makers, government, and RBI in the process of Strategy formulation while opening the doors for Islamic Banking in India.
